Take Exakta, now there is a pace setter if ever there was one. First thought of 30 years ago it's an original idea which, with only minor modifications has remained ahead of the Single Lens Reflex field of cameras ever since.

There are 700 possible combinations of the basic camera to choose from and that's without changing colours from the handsome black and silver it has always worn. Just permutate 20 lenses, 18 screens and 3 viewing systems and you'll see what we mean when we say that this is a system you can bet on.

A few of the most popular combinations are listed below and to arrive at any of the others just add and subtract prices as shown against the full list of interchangeable parts, but first body specification of Exakta and its two younger brothers Exa 11b and Exa 1a.

Rise Expansile Changing Bag

Made of strong rubberised silk supported by inflatable struts, when erected forms a light-tight tent. Inflation is by means of a screw valve and is completed in a matter of seconds.

The Bag does not get 'hot' and even when working for long periods, hands stay quite cool.

Rise Professional size inflated 15 1/2" x 15 1/2" x 13". Code RL	£3 19 6
Rise Medium size inflated 12" x 11" x 11". Code RM	£2 19 6

Antilux

The new light-protection varnish for colour photography.

This new chemical which is supplied in an Aerosol can, forms a thin transparent layer over a photograph which prevents ultra-violet radiation and absorbs carbon dioxide from the air. This prevents the colour fading and also renders retouching invisible.

Comes in two types: Type Special (A) "Matt finish". Type Brilliant (B) "Glossy finish".

Both types available in: Spray tins of 120 cc and 360 cc, and in 1 kg to 25 kg containers.

Please state whether Matt or Glossy Finish is required.

120 cc	19 6
360 cc	£1 19 6
1,000 cc in can	£3 19 6
